THE WASHINGTON POST NAMES VPD GOVERNMENT SOLUTIONS A 2024 TOP WASHINGTON-AREA WORKPLACE

Arlington, VA -- VPD Government Solutions has been named one of The Washington Post's 2024 Top Workplaces in the Washington, D.C. area. Selection is based solely on employee feedback gathered through an anonymous third-party survey administered by research partner Energage, LLC, which measured several aspects of workplace culture, including alignment, execution, and connection. This year's honorees include technology companies, government contractors, real estate firms and financial service providers.

"For more than a decade, The Washington Post's Top Workplaces list has served as an essential resource for D.C.-area professionals, equipping them with unparalleled insight into the best local companies to work for, as heard directly from their employees," said Bronwen Latimer, the editor for Special Initiatives at the Washington Post. "This year we have highlighted 250 companies -- more than ever before -- giving a more robust picture of the current employee experience in the area."

"We are incredibly proud and humbled to be recognized alongside so many other outstanding organizations," said Rob Anastasio, Vice President. "Our employees are the key to our success and this distinction reflects their commitment and dedication to our clients, our company, and each other. Becoming a top workplace is only tenable with the best people, and that is exactly what we have."

The Washington Post hosted an awards ceremony on Thursday, June 20 to recognize the top-ranked companies. For more about The Washington Post's Top Workplaces and to see the full list of this year's honorees, visit Top Workplaces.
